The role of the citizen-architect

February 21, 6:00 pm

Free and all are welcome
architects.org/lectureseries

"WHAT IF THE GENERAL PUBLIC demanded access to beauty as one of our 'inalienable rights' as citizens of a democracy? What if designers dared exercise leadership in guiding communities through the most urgent matters of our time?" These are the fundamental questions citizen-architect Maurice Cox addresses at the February 21 edition of the BSA Lecture Series. Cox describes a series of radical transformations of a community undertaken over a 10-year period when he served as mayor of Charlottesville VA and, as he notes, "citizens began to trust architecture again to shape their world for the better."

Cox is an architectural educator, urban designer and city councillor in Charlottesville, an assistant professor of architecture at the University of Virginia, and a Loeb Fellow at Harvard GSD.

In 1996 he co-founded the architectural practice of RBGC Architecture, Research and Urbanism. His teaching, professional practice, and academic scholarship are characterized by civic activism and community service, and he is an advocate of citizen participation in community planning. His groundbreaking use of design as a catalyst for social change in the rural Virginia community of Bayview has been featured in magazines and news programs and was the subject of the award-winning documentary film, "This Black Soil." ■ CE

Architects, contractors, and clients train young designers

Registration deadline: March 1
architects.org/ypdi

MARCH 1 IS THE REGISTRATION DEADLINE for the ninth annual class in the BSA's Young Designers Professional Development Institute (YDPDI), which begin March 22 and runs through February 13, 2008. This program brings young designers together for four hours each month for 12 months of training in basic office and practice skills.

This unique training opportunity effectively helps young designers make the transition from school to work. Over the course of the year, the young designers enrolled in this program are taught basic writing skills, how to effectively negotiate, marketing strategies, presentation skills, finance and budgeting management, and a good deal more. Classes are limited to 20.

To enrich this program, the BSA formed alliances with Associated General Contractors of Massachusetts and CoreNet Global's Real Advantage, which enables young contractors and corporate real-estate clients to participate in the YDPDI programs as well. The focus of these collaborative programs is partnering and negotiation skills.

The YDPDI program was honored in 2005 by the national AIA, which described the BSA's engagement of allied professionals such as young contractors and clients in the program as "a stroke of genius." YDPDI also recently received an award from AssociateNews, the AIA's emerging professionals' newsletter, as the best AIA Chapter program of 2006.

For more information on this award-winning program for emerging professionals, go to architects.org/ypdi or write program director Bill Ronco at wronco@gatheringpace.com. ■ CE

BSA membership committee presents career wayfinding seminar

The Architects Building
March 6, 6:00–8:00 pm
Spring Fling event: March 22

THE BSA MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE continues its series of career development events to help emerging professionals (or those making career changes) get started in the professional realm.

At the March 6 gathering panelists offer insights into some of the many professional opportunities available to those who have been trained in architecture but whose careers have taken them in different directions. The lively discussion focuses on how the panelists made job transitions, the challenges they found as their careers developed, and the design skills that are most valuable in their current roles.

Whether you are a recent graduate looking for a first job or a mid-career professional interested in branching out, the training and skills of design professionals can lead to diverse careers beyond the conventional architectural studio setting. Free and open to all members and nonmembers. Registration is required; RSVP to 617-951-1433 x221/bsa@architects.org. ■ CE

The Membership Committee is also planning this year's spring fling for March 22 with the theme of "Night of a Dozen Parties." The committee is seeking volunteers to help coordinate the evening's festivities, select venues, and help contact BSA members to encourage participation. For more information, write Kate Miller at kmiller@architects.org or Leslie Saul IIDA, AIA at leslie@lesliesaul.com. Watch next month's ChapterLetter for more information on this event.

■ CE/HSW

Continuing-education credits, required for all architects registered in Massachusetts, are offered at most BSA events and workshops. Look for the [■ CE] symbol throughout this newsletter for programs that qualify. Visit architects.org/ce for more information. Events described in the ChapterLetter followed by a [■ CE/HSW] designation also qualify for Health, Safety, and Welfare Learning Units.

Charles Rose leads this month's conversation

The Architects Building
February 8, 7:00–9:00 pm
Register by: February 7, 4:00 pm
architects.org/conversations

IN "CONVERSATIONS ON ARCHITECTURE," the annual series of monthly design explorations hosted by Brian Healy AIA, leading architects, landscape architects, planners, designers, and educators gather to discuss the current state of architecture in an informal conversation format.

Our guest provocateur on February 8 is Somerville architect Charles Rose AIA. The recipient of numerous local and regional design awards, Rose also has been honored for his design achievements with national awards conferred by the AIA, the GSA and others. His work is often published in Architectural Record, BusinessWeek, and numerous other periodicals and books. Rose, whose work includes a broad range of cultural, institutional, residential, and federal agency projects, begins this month's conversation with an exploration of projects currently in design.

Open to everyone, but reservations are required. The $10 fee ($5 for BSA members and for full-time design students) includes ample food and drink. Space is limited to 30 on a first-come/first-served basis; download a form at architects.org/reservations. ■ CE

Ed. note: Previous conversations have been led by Chris Reed ASLA, Mark Goulthorpe, Ed Mitchell AIA, Brian Healy AIA, Yung Ho Chang, Andrea Leers FAIA, Jane Weinzapfel FAIA, landscape architect Michael Boucher, Jennifer Siegal, Ann Pendleton-Jullian, and Kevin Daly AIA. For a complete list of guest speakers, go to architects.org/conversations.

The BSA's inaugural Job Fair is February 17

Raytheon Amphitheater
Northeastern University
February 17, 9:00 am–1:00 pm
architects.org/jobfair

ON FEBRUARY 17, the BSA hosts its first Job Fair in Northeastern University's Raytheon Amphitheater. The event begins at 9:00 am in the lobby of the Egan Center, in Northeastern's central campus. The Job Fair features dozens of booths staffed by representatives of Massachusetts architecture firms as well as a series of workshops on building an architecture career in Boston. This event is free and open to all job-seekers. For registration and other details, visit architects.org/jobfair or write/call Andrew Baldwin (abaldwin@architects.org/617-951-1433 x242).

Ed. note: The BSA offers many job-search tools, including online classified ads, an online resume bank, and weekly job notification emails. For more information on any of these services, go to architects.org/classifieds or call/write Andrew Baldwin at 617-951-1433 x242/abaldwin@architects.org.

BASIC REAL-ESTATE terminology, financing options, home-buying strategies, how and when to make the right offer, and the roles that realtors, home inspectors, attorneys, and mortgage brokers play are among the issues addressed in a special BSA seminar on February 23.

Led by mortgage broker Carrie Carrizosa of the Boston Private Bank, real-estate attorney Tom Percy of Percy, Tedeschi & Kilcline of Taunton, and realtor (and BSA Housing Committee co-chair) David Kelman of RE/MAX Landmark in Dorchester, this session is an informal opportunity to probe the often mystifying and challenging steps in the process of buying a home. Presentations by each of the guest speakers are followed by a highly interactive Q&A period.

All members and nonmembers are welcome but registration is required. The $15 fee ($5 for BSA members) includes morning refreshments and copies of relevant mortgage and real-estate forms. Download the registration form at architects.org/reservations and fax it to the BSA by 9:30 am on February 22.

Mass. Office of Commonwealth Development wins EPA award

THE US ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY'S 2006 National Awards for Smart Growth Achievement recognized programs that use smart growth principles to improve existing communities or build new communities that expand economic development opportunities, enhance quality of life, and preserve the natural environment.

The Massachusetts Office of Commonwealth Development (OCD) was honored in this program for demonstrating that states can play leadership roles on development issues while leaving decisions in the hands of local communities. OCD brings together state agencies responsible for environmental, transportation, and housing policies in a single office to promote growth that meets a wide range of goals. Through incentives and outreach, OCD is changing the way both state and localities make growth decisions in affordable housing, transit-oriented development, and protecting greenfields.

BSA's ARE program wins AIA national award

architects.org/aresuccess

GREAT IDEAS AND BEST PRACTICES TAKE SHAPE throughout the AIA community in response to a wide range of local environments, political conditions, specific needs, and opportunities.

This year, the BSA's Architect Registration Examination (ARE) Success Teams program is the recipient of an AIA Component Excellence Award recognizing "the development of a great idea into an excellent component program...an excellent model of support for ARE candidates and the profession because it helps ensure that every intern architect has an opportunity to pass the exam and advance his/her career."

The ARE Success Teams program provides intern architects with a supportive group structure, meeting/study space, and free study materials, including the complete set of Kaplan ARE Learning System, Archiflash cards, Norman Dorf's ARE Solutions book, and Professionals Publication's Architecture Exam Review.

If you are interested in joining an ARE Success Team, call/write Jamie Segel at 617-951-1433 x223/jsegel@architects.org.

Elizabeth Spelman, Assoc. AIA conceived and developed the ARE Success Team program while serving on the BSA Membership Committee.

How are engineers adapting to BIM?

The Architects Building
February 27, 8:00–10:00 am

AS WE EXPLORE THE OPPORTUNITIES AND CHALLENGES posed by incorporating building information modeling (BIM) in our architectural practices, the BIM Roundtable is investigating the ways in which other industry professions are responding to the challenges and opportunities BIM presents.

On February 27, we focus on the ways in which the engineering profession is implementing BIM in its practices. Led by BIM Roundtable co-chair Michael Schroeder of ADD Inc, this informal conversation includes structural engineer Mehul Dhruv PE of Engineers Design Group in Medford and mechanical engineer Christopher Ham PE of SEi Companies in Boston. All BSA members and friends are welcome; there is no charge.

To add yourself to the BIM Roundtable mailing list, go to architects.org and click "Subscribe." ■ CE

Residential Design and Construction 2007

Seaport World Trade Center, Boston
April 4–5, 2007
Discount deadline: March 19
rdcboston.com/800-544-1898

THE BSA'S THIRD ANNUAL RESIDENTIAL DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION CONVENTION AND TRADESHOW is April 4–5 at the Seaport World Trade Show. This year's event features nationally known speakers and scores of workshops on everything residential (and offering AIA and state continuing education credits).

If you register by March 19, you'll receive free admission to the exhibit hall, which showcases more than 250 residential products and services vendors. The exhibit hall is also open to the public during special hours on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Residential Design and Construction is a great place for you to earn continuing education and AIA/CES learning units, get up-to-speed on the latest technologies, discover new design innovations, and network with peers and others in the building industry.

RDC is designed for architects, interior designers, landscape architects, homebuilders, developers, subcontractors and specialty contractors, remodelers, renovators, marketing professionals, small-firm administrators, planners, residential clients, and young professionals.

Keynote address by Dwell's Sam Grawe. Dwell magazine editor-in-chief Sam Grawe kicks off the event with his keynote presentation on "Designing the future of design." He examines what it means to be "modern" and whether or not design really improves our lives. He questions if "sustainable" design is good enough and offers thoughts on exactly what "good" design is.

In his address, Grawe discusses these issues and other questions that arise while putting together a magazine about "being at home in the modern world." Grawe has written for Wired and Nylon magazines, co-taught a design workshop with Erwan Bouroullec at The University of Art and Design in Helsinki, and is one-half of the electronic music group Windsurf. #### Workshops for everyone.

Workshops are organized by audience and special interest areas. The workshop program identifies sessions of interest to architects and residential designers, interior designers, construction professionals and young professionals. Sustainability, codes and regulations, project management, firm management, business development, smart growth and affordable housing are among this year's issue tracks.

BSA Resource Area and Store.

Visit the BSA Resource Area to purchase books, learn more about the Boston Society of Architects (producers of RDC as well as Build Boston) and discover resources to help enrich your career and your practice. BSA staff members are available to answer questions on continuing education, BSA committee activities, membership opportunities, and much more. ■ CE/MSW

BSA awards $81,000 in design research grants

architects.org/grants

THE BOSTON SOCIETY OF ARCHITECTS is pleased to announce the recipients of the 2007 Research Grants in Architecture. This year the BSA received 86 grant applications and awarded these eight grants totaling $81,629.80:

- Marilyne Andersen (MIT, Cambridge MA)—"Pioneering Daylighting Design Tool to Combine Architectural Form with Advanced Technology: The LightSolve Project" ($10,000)
- Pongsak Chaisuparamikul (Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago)—"Data

Exchange Model and Software Interoperability to Improve the Energy-Efficient Building Design Process" ($10,000)

- Charles H. Culp (Texas A&M University, College Station TX)—"Time-dependent Thermal Comfort Variables" ($9,228.80)
- Maria Garlock (Princeton University, Princeton NJ)—"Building for the Future: Evaluating the Current Viability of Thin Shell" ($10,000)
- John Haymaker (Stanford University's Center for Integrated Facility Engineering, Stanford CA)—"User Requirements and Software Capabilities for AEC Life-

Cycle Assessment" ($9,997)

- Ulrike Passe (Iowa State University, Ames IA)—"The Fluid Dynamics of Air Flow in Free-Flow Open Spaces: An Architectural Approach to Energy-Efficient Buildings" ($20,000)
- Susan Silberberg (MIT School of Architecture and Planning, Cambridge MA)—"The Secure City: Design and Perception of Public Space Post-9/11" ($9,974)
- Andrew J. Witt (Harvard University Graduate School of Design, Cambridge MA)—"CNC Adaptable Molds for Thin-Shell Structures" ($2,430)

The jurors for 2006 were Carol Burns AIA (Taylor & Burns Architects, Boston), Dan Friedman FAIA (University of Washington, Seattle), Brian Healy AIA (Brian Healy Architects, Boston), and Steve Kieran FAIA (KieranTimberlake Associates, Philadelphia).

The deadline for the 2008 BSA Research Grants in Architecture program is September 17, 2007. This year, we expect to award more than $90,000 to support original practice-based research projects. For more information, go to architects.org/grants.

Common Boston prepares for June festival

June 8-10
commonboston.org

COMMON BOSTON, AN AIA 150 INITIATIVE supported by the BSA, is preparing for Common Boston 07, a citywide architecture and design festival, June 8-10, 2007.

As part of "Blueprint for America," the AIA's 150th anniversary celebration program, Common Boston is organizing a series of public events, including community tours, public discussions, and "open buildings" focusing on the city's architecture and how it relates to the community as a whole.

Common Boston's mission is to engage residents and community members in the built environment, especially walkable areas around rapid transit hubs throughout the city.

Common Boston is seeking volunteers to help during the three-day festival, sponsorship/charitable contributions, and suggestions for programming. To request additional information, propose an event, volunteer, or receive email updates, write Justin Crane at info@commonboston.org.

BSA honors members with donations to BFA

SINCE 1992, THE BSA BOARD OF DIRECTORS has been making annual contributions to the Boston Foundation for Architecture in memory of BSA members who died during the previous year. With sadness, we noted the passing in 2006 of too many BSA members:

- Merton Barrows AIA of Henderson NC
- Russell Fuller, Assoc. AIA of North Weymouth
- Paul Grayson AIA of Winchester
- Huson Jackson FAIA of Lincoln
- Robert Kuehn of Boston
- Ralph LeBeau of Milton
- Nina Monastero AIA of Watertown
- John Peirce FAIA of Topsfield
- Laurence Rubin AIA of Wellesley Hills
- Robert Searson AIA of East Weymouth
- Hugh Stubbins FAIA of Cambridge

The BSA is honored to be able to remember our colleagues with a donation to the Foundation this year; readers interested in making similar contributions should mail them to the Foundation at 52 Broad St., Boston 02109.

Hubert Murray AIA, RIBA President

Members, allies support BSA/BFA programming

THE ALCHEMY FOUNDATION of Brookline is among the BSA members and allies who regularly provide financial support for BSA and BFA public design-awareness and professional-development programs and we are pleased to note these recent donations to the BSA:

- Douglas Abbondanzio, Classic Stone Company
- Jeff Bryant, Resource Options
- Kurt Carlson, Home Automation
- Kenneth Crisafulli, Assoc. AIA, Rogerson Communities
- Rick Curpenski, Tremco
- Karin I. Jones ASID
- Kalin Associates
- N. Toby Sirois AIA

- Christopher Smith, Steeplechase Builders Inc.
  - Ingrid Trowbridge Strong AIA, Ingrid Strong Architect
- In addition, many BSA members and allies also help underwrite the public education grant-making program of the Boston Foundation for Architecture (BFA). Recent donors to this effort, in addition to the Alchemy Foundation, include M. Wyllis Bibbins AIA of Cambridge, Diana Abrashkin AIA of Lincoln, Cambridge Seven Associates, and a joint contribution from Cutler Associates and Payette.

As often noted, both the BSA and the BFA benefit year after year from the exceptional generosity of architects and allies throughout the industry who invest in the programs that help us elevate public understanding and appreciation of planning, design, and construction, and the contribution our industry makes to a sustainable and humane culture. For more information on BSA and BFA programs and how you can help support them, call/write Richard Fitzgerald at the BSA/BFA at 617-951-1433 x232/ rfitzgerald@architects.org.

Hubert Murray AIA, RIBA BSA President

Peter Kuttner FAIA BFA Chairman

What are we getting for our dues?

architects.org/jobfair

THE CHAPTER LETTER EACH MONTH HIGHLIGHTS one useful program or service that our BSA dues help underwrite. This month we draw special attention to the Job Fair described on page 3. This effort to assist local design firms in our search for bright young minds—and to enable those bright young minds to find employment in our firms—is the latest addition to the quiver of BSA opportunities and services for firms and job-seekers that our dues help sustain.

Jim Dunn, CPA, Assoc. AIA BSA Treasurer

CDRC-Boston launches new website

cdrc-boston.org

THE COMMUNITY DESIGN RESOURCE CENTER OF BOSTON has launched an updated website (cdrc-boston.org) with a new look and easier navigation. The new site includes news highlights, information about CDRC-Boston services and supporters, information on what community design is, and lists of related resources. Clients and volunteers can easily download forms and anyone interested in community design in Greater Boston can sign up to get the latest updates on events and activities.

The new look, created by RedClay, incorporates photos and drawings by local designers and community organizations. CDRC-Boston will use the site to highlight Greater Boston community design projects and resources.

The BSA welcomes new staff members

IN THE LAST QUARTER OF 2006, the BSA welcomed four new staff professionals who bring critical skills and interesting backgrounds to the organization.

Ann Fienman, project manager and executive assistant, brings extensive nonprofit experience to the BSA. Most recently, she supported all facets of Everybody Wins Metro Boston, a children's literacy and mentoring organization, where she worked on everything from fundraising and program activities to operations, outreach, and marketing communications. Prior to that, Ann was with education company Kids Energy, Inc. Her background includes several other educational initiatives and she is active in the town of Arlington, where she currently lives.

Jamie Segel is the BSA's newest project manager, who in October managed her first successful event, the BSA's Career Day. Many of Jamie's multi-tasking skills were derived from the various roles she played as a project coordinator for the MSPCA, where she handled fundraising, special event planning, newsletter editing, volunteer management, and general animal cuddling. Working with animals since the early 1990s, Jamie was a marine mammal trainer for the New England Aquarium where she worked with sea lions, seals, and sea otters. She is currently pursuing a master's degree in interior design at Suffolk University.

Eric White has joined the BSA as the new program director handling special events, award programs and more. Eric worked for 25 years at Old Sturbridge Village in central Massachusetts. He was involved in many aspects of the museum during his tenure including financial management, marketing, fundraising, human resources management, and strategic planning. Eric's organizational and project management skills, coupled with his enthusiasm, helped him successfully plan the recent Build Boston Gala only a mere few weeks after coming on board.

The final new arrival is office manager Conor MacDonald, who came on board just after Build Boston. An architecture enthusiast, Conor graduated from Lehigh University with a bachelor's degree in finance and a minor in architectural history. He has written for and edited several academic publications, including with Lehigh's department of Art and Architecture. He has handled real estate sales, advertising and promotions, and worked with contractors and architects in the Store Planning & Design Department at Talbot's. Conor brings many great ideas and a fresh, young voice to the BSA office.

The BSA and Boston Area Real Estate Professionals (BAYREP) community are co-sponsoring a young professionals networking mixer February 7, 6:00–8:30 pm, at Bell in Hand Tavern, 45 Union Street in Boston. Free appetizers and cash bar. For details, go to bayrep.org/communitymixer2007.html.

Ownership transition is not a walk in the park

EACH MONTH THE BSA RECEIVES A HANDFUL OF QUERIES from members and allies seeking guidelines on design-firm ownership, leadership, and/or governance transition. The BSA has assembled a packet of materials that address these issues, which includes articles originally published in Principal's Report and PSMJ/Professional Services Management Journal.

Articles in the packet include: "Twenty Ownership Transition Pitfalls," "Who'll Mind the Store? Planning for an Ownership Transition," "Passing the Leadership Baton Can Lead to Bad Blood...or to Triumph," "Why It's Important to Value Your Firm—and How to Do It," "The Nuts and Bolts of Financing Your Ownership Transition," "How to Come Out Ahead When Preparing for Ownership Transition," "Transferring Ownership & Leadership: A Tale of Two A/E Firms," and "New Ownership Transition Resource Lists Five Options."

For a copy of this packet (available only by mail), members in Massachusetts should send requests with a $1.11 SASE (9" x 12") to OTCOMBO/RF, BSA, 52 Broad St., Boston 02109; readers who are not yet members should include a $25 service fee payable to the BSA along with the $1.11 SASE.

In a quest for continuity, consistency and accountability, the AIA Board of Directors has adopted a new approach to setting direction for the Institute. Collaborative exercises, held among a cross-section of stakeholders, helped to define goals and strategies and clearly articulate what AIA leaders want to accomplish, how to get there, and what measures success, resulted in a mission state for the Institute: The American Institute of Architects is the voice of the architectural profession and the resource for its members in service to society. The AIA took it one step further and shaped the goals, strategies, and programs that compose the 2007 Strategic Plan, available online at browse.aia.org/mission.

The BSA ChapterLetter is published monthly by the Boston Society of Architects/AIA. The ChapterLetter is a service provided by AIA members in Massachusetts to the profession, the public, and everyone else with a sense of humor or an interest in 21st-century America. For subscription information, write/call kmiller@architects.org/617-951-1433 x228.

Letters to the editor, suggestions, criticism, and encouragement are welcome. Material intended for publication must reach the BSA by noon on the deadline dates listed on p. 1.

Appropriate submissions are edited and published as space, temperament, and prejudices permit. For complete submission specifications and deadlines, visit architects.org/chapterletter.

The BSA

The Boston Society of Architects/AIA is a non-profit, membership service organization and has been an advocate of architectural excellence and public awareness of architecture since 1867. Membership in the BSA is open to every breathing soul on the planet.

Public policy and the BSA

The BSA's Legislative Affairs Committee (LAC), which also represents AIA Massachusetts, primarily focuses on state legislation but is also engaged in the workings of local and federal government. Our policy and political advisors—former state senator George Bachrach and Paul Pezzella—help us monitor the goings-on of the state legislature, advance legislative proposals, and offer testimony before legislative committees about bills under consideration.

In addition to our own issues, we sometimes put a spotlight on mischief by others that might advance a special interest to the detriment of the public. We aim to advance our specific interests as a profession, but also improve the quality of our communities. We sometimes convene conversations among our other committees to craft a policy statement. And we often don't act alone—we seek to build coalitions with other associations, interest groups, and public agencies. Some of the many organizations we work with include: general contractors (the Associated General Contractors of Massachusetts), builders (the Associated Builders & Contractors of Massachusetts and Associated Subcontractors of Massachusetts), organized labor (the Massachusetts Building Trades Council), others in the design professions (such as the American Council of Engineering Companies, finance (as with the Surety Association of Massachusetts), environment (Environmental League and the Massachusetts Smart Growth Alliance) and the state's capital construction agencies (DCAM, the MSCBA, and MSBA) or their regulators such as the Offices of the Inspector General and Attorney General.

CURRENT ISSUES

Legislative work takes patience. Laws don't change overnight but when the conversation heats up we need to be able to speak to those who are positioned to affect the outcome. Some issues we are currently addressing include:

- Interior design licensure. The interior design (ID) community has for the past several years proposed legislation that would require a license to practice interior design. While we support formal recognition of ID practice, we oppose requiring an ID license. Related legislation held last year in the House Ways & Means Committee expired at the end of the 2006 legislative session. This issue, strongly supported by lobbyists for interior designers, will resurface and require ongoing monitoring and we look forward to working with our ID colleagues to craft a compromise that advances their interests, while (most importantly) maintaining public safety.
- Sustainability and green design. This rapidly expanding area has many dimensions ranging from building code requirements to establishing a Green Buildings Tax Credit. Last year the tax credit made it through one house. Working in coalition with others in the real estate, building, and environmental communities, we will continue to advocate passage of this legislation in the current session.

- Mechanics liens. We are preparing a statute that would allow architects to file liens against clients who have received professional services but haven't paid for them.
- Architect Emeritus. We are proposing to allow the state Board of Registration to establish an Emeritus status that would allow retiring architects to maintain their title and formal registration at lesser expense and without having to complete the annual continuing education requirement for active practitioners.

- Concrete Buildings. For the past several years, the concrete industry has attempted to capitalize on recent fire tragedies with legislation mandating use of concrete or other masonry materials in the construction of schools, dorms, and elderly housing. Cement industry lobbyists will resurrect this issue next year...and we'll be watching.

We aim to advance our specific interests as a profession, but also improve the quality of our communities.

RECENT SUCCESSES

Here are a few of our recent successes:

- Brownfields Tax Credit. In coalition with the Massachusetts Smart Growth Alliance, we successfully supported passage of the brownfields tax credit as part of the Legislature's economic stimulus package.
- Historic Tax Credit. We worked with the Historic Preservation Alliance to pass an extension of the historic tax credit providing $50 million more over next five years.
- Construction Reform. The BSA participated in the Massachusetts Construction Reform Commission, which authored the first major reform of public construction in a generation. We were among the principal policy authors who secured and strengthened designer qualifications-based selection (QBS), reformed the public construction procurement process, and established the new construction management at risk technique for state and municipal agencies.

HOW YOU CAN GET INVOLVED

The Legislative Affairs Committee never has a shortage of issue to address. If you are interested in legislative affairs and public policy, we encourage you to visit architects.org/lac and sign up to receive email updates. Our website includes information about current issues and successes, upcoming meetings, and minutes of past meetings. Our meetings, held at 8:30 am on the second Tuesday of every month at The Architects Building, are open to everyone.
